

The potential users of the website all said that it was a good initial idea. They all commented on how it was difficult to get the very best supplements for a good price in Galway. However, a significant majority of those asked said that in the current situation their need for supplements has drastically reduced due to the pandemic shutting gyms.

The system will only be a middleman. It will record orders from customers and then store them in a database. I will then place the order to the customers address. The website will offer a safe and reliable place to import those rare brands from other countries as well as personalized programs for training and nutrition.

The system has images of the products available along with the name of what the product is. It also has a link to an external site that offers a wider range of products largely only available in the US.

There is no cost or payment attached to the current system.

This page may be published through an external source such as Shopify. If shopify is used then the website will cost upwards of £29.95 (approx. 35 eur) a month to run.

The website will be updated and maintained by me. I will add payment methods and update products and information as necessary. I will also provide customer support through the website once it is published.
